Principles

1 Inclusion is everyone's responsibility, and it's a moral and ethical obligation.

We live our IDEAL values in everything we do. 2

3 To be inclusive means leading with empathy.

Inclusion starts with us. 4

5 Diverse representation matters.

Accessibility is a human right. 6

7 Sound design is inclusive design. No compromising.

The language we use matters. 8

9 We won't let pursuit of perfection get in the way of progress.

We invite input and welcome feedback. 10

Guiding Beliefs

Everyone deserves equitable access to learning experiences where they feel represented, included, and valued.

If learning is not inclusive, it cannot be effective.

People are more important than profit or policy.

Diversity of all kinds should be celebrated.

Building inclusive environments requires a conscious commitment and the willingness to explore and address our own biases.
